

We offer professional body piercing with the highest level of sterilization standards and top quality body jewelry.

When visiting a piercing studio, there are a few fundamentals to look for:

Sterilization - This is the most important aspect of any studio! Make sure they are using an autoclave or Statim to sterilize needles, jewelry and piercing equipment. The studio should be spore testing this machine monthly and have documentation to prove this.

Training - What type of formal training does the piercer have? Have they been properly trained in cross-contamination and aseptic techniques? Have they taken a bloodborne pathogens course in the past year?

Jewelry - Body piercing jewelry comes in many different materials; titanium, stainless steel and 14k gold. Make sure the studio is using implant-grade quality pieces. The studio should be able to provide mill certification from the manufacturers proving the legitimacy of their product.

Always wash your hands thoroughly for 30 seconds before starting your cleaning regimen!

Twice a day cleaning should take place in the morning and evening and should always be the last thing you clean in your facial or shower routine. Spray your piercing with your saline wound wash and let it sit for 30 seconds.

This helps to irrigate bacteria away from the area and loosens up any "crusty" matter that might be stuck to the jewelry. Then wet a few Q-tips with water and thoroughly rinse all the solution away. The last step is to dry the area with Q-tips and leave it alone!

It is important that you remove all the dried discharge from the jewelry as this will damage healing tissue.

The gentler you are with your piercing, the faster it will heal.

Twisting and turning the jewelry at any time is not necessary!

It is not uncommon for genital piercings to bleed for a few days afterward. Do not be alarmed but, be prepared and take precautions to protect clothing. Utilize the warm water in your shower to loosen and rinse away any dried blood.

No sexual contact or swapping of bodily fluids for the first 2 weeks! This applies even if you are in a monogamous relationship!! At the very least, use protection and clean afterwards. This rule should apply for the first 2 months of your initial healing period.

The Rules

Do not touch your piercing with dirty hands!

Avoid undue trauma to the piercing like friction from clothing, excessive movement or vigorous cleaning.

Do not over clean your piercing. This is as harmful as not cleaning at all - no more than 2x a day is necessary.

Do not change the jewelry before your healing time is up unless your piercer has advised you to come back for a downsize.

Avoid open bodies of water for 2 months. This includes hot-tubs, lakes, pools and even your bathtub.

Do not use rubbing alcohol, hydrogen peroxide, Bactine, Polysporin or essential oils like Tea Tree oil as aftercare products.

Stay healthy! Drink water, take vitamin supplements and get plenty of sleep.

Make sure anything that comes into contact with your piercing has been cleaned or has a protective barrier. This includes clothing, bedsheets, toys etc. It is also best to use a water based lubricant.
